THE STORY OF FEUDALISM

(5TH TO 15TH CENTURIES)

AFTER CHARLEMAGNE (717—814 A.D.) THE VAST EMPIRE OF WESTERN EUROPE FELL APART. HIS SUCCESSORS WERE WEAK, SO STRONG NOBLES MADE THEMSELVES KINGS OF THE VARIOUS TERRITORIES. BUT THESE NEW KINGS TRIED TO EXTEND THEIR KINGDOMS BY CONQUERING THEIR NEIGHBOR KINGS...

THE PEOPLE TURNED TO THE MOST POWERFUL NOBLE OF THE NEIGHBORHOOD FOR PROTECTION. THIS RELATIONSHIP CAME TO BE KNOWN AS FEUDALISM...

Please, sire — take our lands and give us but their use in return for your protection!

UNDER FEUDALISM, EVERY FREEMAN OWED ALLEGIANCE TO SOME OVERLORD, WHO IN TURN OWED ALLEGIANCE TO SOME HIGHER OVERLORD, AND SO ON TO THE KING

Sir Hugh owes service directly to the King for his lands!

Many vassals owe service to me, while I owe service to my overlord!

VASSALS WHO OBTAINED THE USE OF LAND FROM AN OVERLORD PAID HOMAGE TO HIM

I do homage my lord for these lands and will defend them against all invaders!

Arise and receive the kiss of peace!

THE VASSAL ALSO OWED HIS LORD MILITARY SERVICE FOR 40 DAYS EACH YEAR, AS WELL AS SOME SPECIAL AIDS...

Alas! I must help my lord pay the expenses of knighting his son and marrying off his daughter!

And I just helped buy the freedom of my lord who was captured in war!

BELOW THE NOBLE CLASS WAS THE GREAT MASS OF PEASANTS, OR SERFS. WHILE THE LORDS DID THE FIGHTING, THE SERFS DID THE MANUAL LABOR

Our knight will be pleased with our labor. We have produced a plentiful harvest!

THE SERF COULD NOT SELL OR LEAVE HIS LAND NOR HIRE HIMSELF OUT AS A LABORER...

We must find this runaway serf!

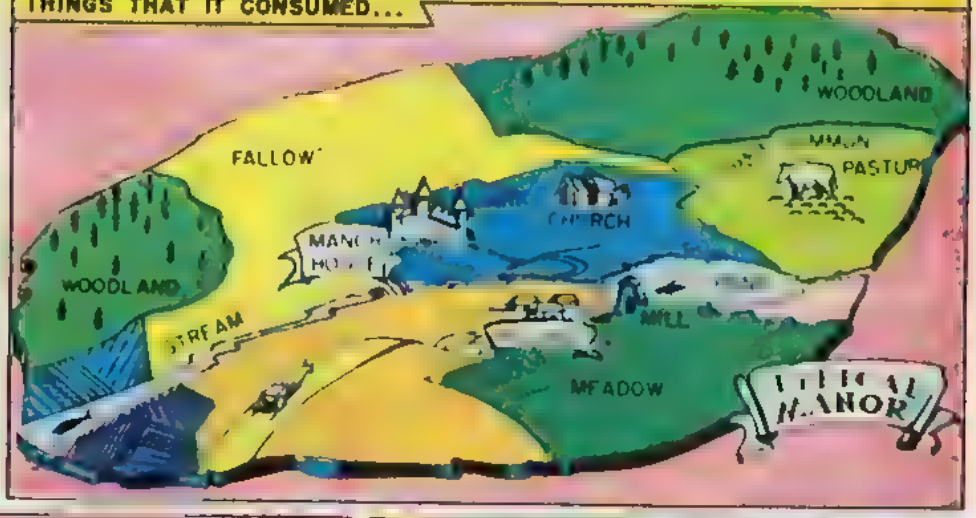
If I can only resist capture for a year and a day, I shall be free!

NOT ONLY DID THE SERF WORK FOR THE LORD, BUT HE HAD TO GIVE UP A SHARE OF THE GRAIN OR ANIMALS HE RAISED FOR HIMSELF

This grain completes my feudal dues for the year, but I still owe three days' labor each week in my lord's fields!

THE LARGE ESTATES OF THE LORDS WERE REALLY VILLAGE COMMUNITIES CALLED MANORS. EACH MANOR INCLUDED A CASTLE, BUILDINGS FOR THE SERVANTS AND ANIMALS, AND HUTS FOR THE SERFS, TOGETHER WITH THE PASTURE, WOODLAND AND FARMLAND NECESSARY FOR FARM LIVING...

THE MANOR WAS ALMOST SELF-SUFFICIENT, PRODUCING MOST OF THE THINGS THAT IT CONSUMED...



THE FARMLAND ON THE MANOR WAS DIVIDED INTO THREE LARGE FIELDS, AND THE SERF WAS GIVEN STRIPS OF LAND IN EACH FIELD...

So much time is wasted going from one of my strips of land to another!

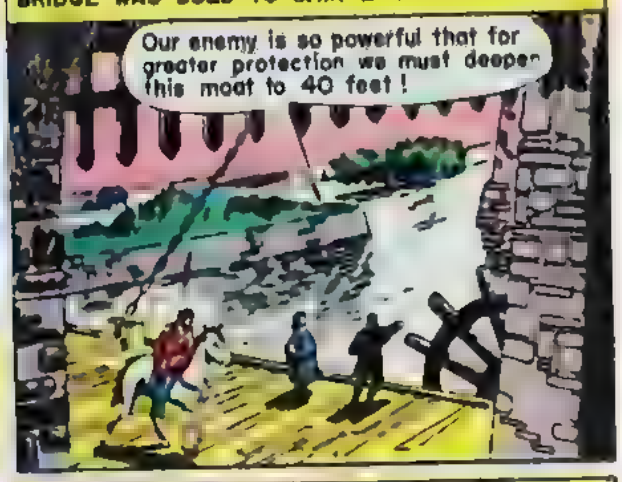
But the three-field system keeps our land fertile!

THE SERF WAS REQUIRED TO PAY FOR THE USE OF HIS LORD'S MILL, HIS OVEN, AND HIS WINE PRESS...

Part of your flour goes to the lord for the use of his mill, and part goes to me for my labor!

TO PROTECT HIMSELF AND HIS VASSALS, THE LORD BUILT A STONE FORTRESS CALLED A CASTLE ON AN EASILY-DEFENDED HILLTOP NEAR THE CENTER OF HIS ESTATE.

FOR GREATER PROTECTION, A DITCH OR MOAT WAS DUG AROUND THE CASTLE AND A DRAW-BRIDGE WAS USED TO GAIN ENTRANCE...



THE STRONGHOLD OF THE CASTLE WAS A TOWER CALLED THE "DONJON" OR "KEEP" WHICH HAD STONE WALLS 8 TO 10 FEET THICK...

THUS IT WAS EASIER TO DEFEND A CASTLE THAN TO CAPTURE ONE...

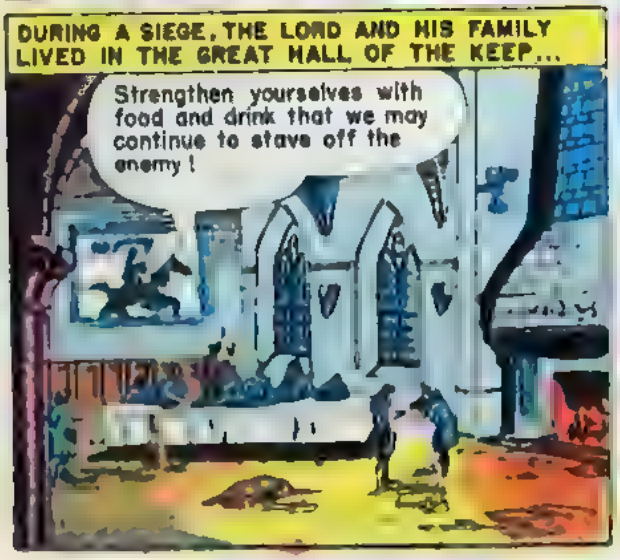
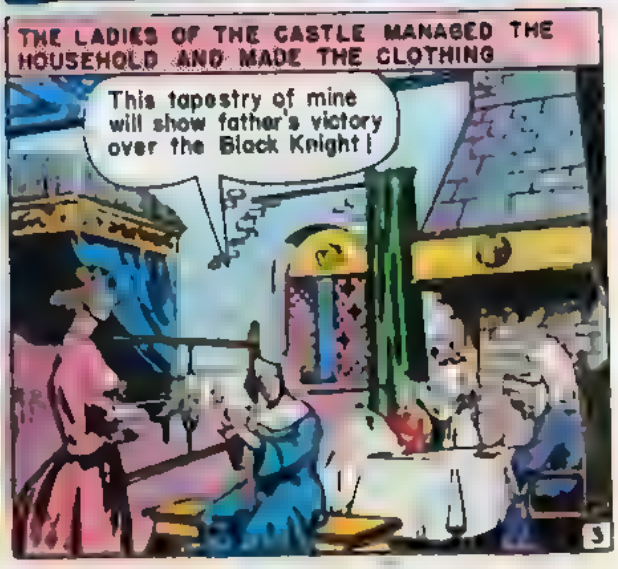
DURING A SIEGE, THE LORD AND HIS FAMILY LIVED IN THE GREAT HALL OF THE KEEP...



THE LADIES OF THE CASTLE MANAGED THE HOUSEHOLD AND MADE THE CLOTHING



SINCE THE FEUDAL LORDS SPENT MOST OF THEIR TIME FIGHTING DURING THE MIDDLE AGES, LEARNING HOW TO FIGHT WAS A LARGE PART OF THE EDUCATION OF ALL YOUNG MEN OF RANK. THE TRAINING WAS LONG AND ARDUOUS AND CONTINUED FROM THE TIME A BOY WAS 7 UNTIL HE REACHED 21..

THE SON OF A LORD WAS TAUGHT AT HOME UNTIL HE WAS 7. WHEN HE WAS SENT TO AN OVERLORD'S CASTLE AS A PAGE

Be obedient and serve your lord and lady well! Learn all that they teach you!

I will, Mother!

SO THE YOUNG PAGE LEARNED RELIGION AND POLITE BEHAVIOR FROM THE LADY OF THE CASTLE...

You must always defend your church and be courteous, true and kind!

AND FROM THE LORD OF THE CASTLE HE LEARNED HOW TO RIDE AND HANDLE HORSES

Sit more securely when jumping a ditch. Give your horse a rub-down, then shine my armor!

Yes, sire!

WHEN THE PAGE WAS 14 YEARS OLD, HE ENTERED THE SECOND STAGE OF TRAINING FOR KNIGHTHOOD AND BECAME A SQUIRE...

Today my lord praised my skill with lance and ax.

But you still need practice with the sword and mace!

THE SQUIRE ATTENDED HIS LORD IN BATTLE, CARRYING HIS WEAPONS AND ARMOR

Your weapons are in readiness, sire!

Good! Now let us find the wicked knight I seek!

AT 21, THE SQUIRE USUALLY BECAME A KNIGHT AFTER GOING THROUGH MANY CEREMONIES
After my bath of purification, I shall don my garments of red, white and black. Red for the blood I shall shed, white for purity of mind, and black to remind me of death !
THE NEXT STEP WAS THE "WATCHING OF THE ARMS"
You have passed the test ! You have fasted and prayed that as a true knight you will use your weapons for God and the Church !
Now that you are dressed as a knight, you must act as a knight !
Thank you, good friend !
AND THE FINAL STEP OF THE CEREMONY
In the name of God and Saint Michael and Saint George, I dub thee Knight ! Be brave and loyal !
THE NEW KNIGHT THEN SET OUT TO KEEP HIS VOWS AND THE CODE OF MANNERS CALLED "CHIVALRY"
I must must seek a chance to keep my vow to defend the Church, women, the weak, and those in distress !
IF A KNIGHT FAILED TO LIVE UP TO HIS VOWS, HE WAS PUT THROUGH THE CEREMONY OF DEGRADATION ..
I now pronounce you dead to the honors of knighthood !

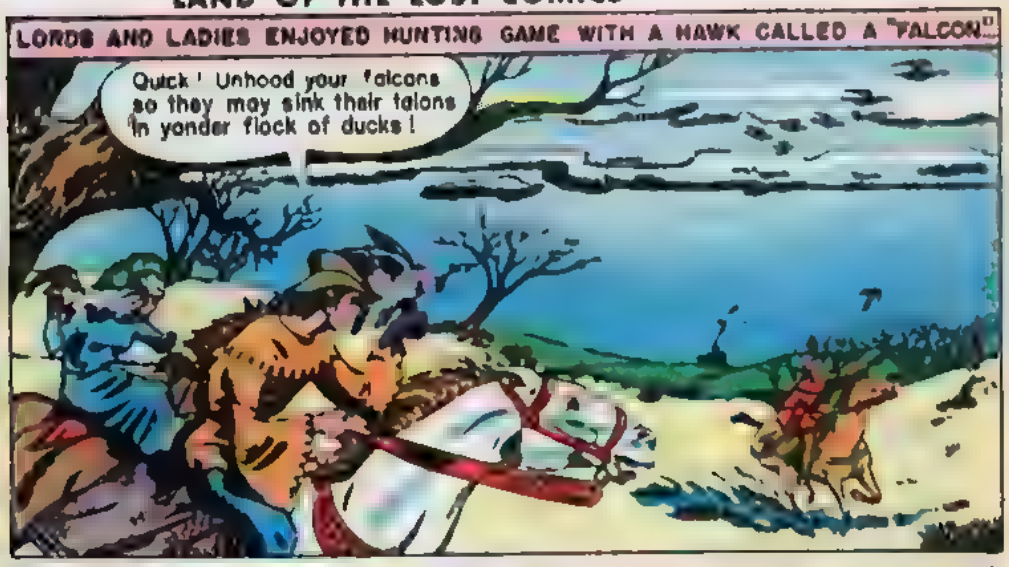
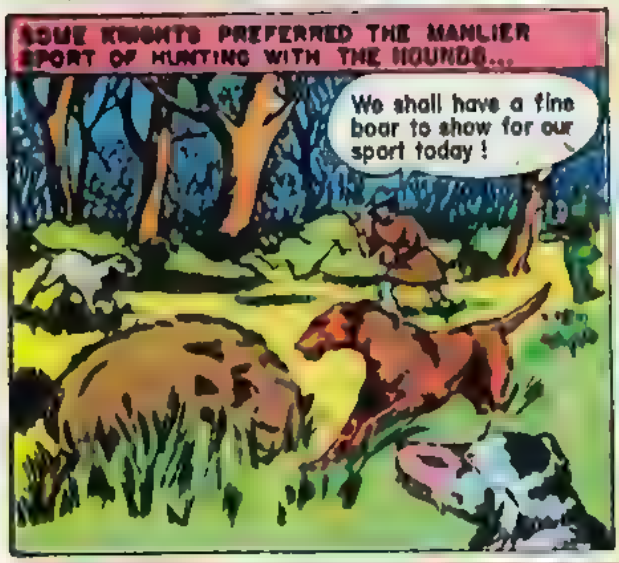
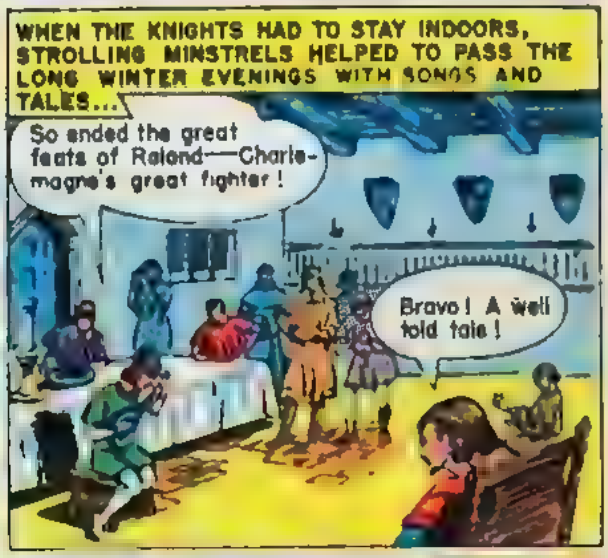
When the knights were not fighting, life seemed dull and they longed for excitement and entertainment. Tournaments, hunting and minstrels furnished their chief means of relaxation...



LORDS AND LADIES ENJOYED HUNTING GAME WITH A HAWK CALLED A "FALCON"
Quick! Unhood your falcons so they may sink their talons in yonder flock of ducks!





WHEN THE KNIGHTS HAD TO STAY INDOORS, STROLLING MINSTRELS HELPED TO PASS THE LONG WINTER EVENINGS WITH SONGS AND TALES...
So ended the great feats of Roland—Charlemagne's great fighter!
Bravo! A well told tale!

ATHLETIC CONTESTS BETWEEN TWO KNIGHTS WERE CALLED "JOUSTS." WHEN TWO TEAMS PARTICIPATED, THE CONTESTS WERE CALLED "TOURNAMENTS"...
Fortunately, the lances and swords have been blunted or there would be much blood shed!

As a form of social organization, feudalism seemed to be a backward step from Greek and Roman development. But, as we shall see, it was really a step forward toward the civilization of the modern world.

HOME OF THE METAL MEN

SYNOPSIS: Jim Brentwood, famous young Astronomer, discovers that life exists on the planetoid Zesta. With his wife, Doris, and her kid-brother, Freddy . . . who is a stowaway on Jim's Spaceship, SHOOTING COMET . . . he heads for Zesta, 3,000,000 miles away! He discovers when he lands that the people of Zesta, called Zoopians, are made of METAL! And though they appear to be friendly, the Earth-people . . . or Soft Ones, as the Zoopians call them . . . cannot come within three feet of the Metal Men without receiving a violent shock! Jim, Doris and Freddy are brought before Queen Ra, and when she asks what Earth-people do for amusement, Freddy whips out his harmonica and begins to play!

THE QUEEN was pleased with Freddy's playing, and she said to Jim: "What else do you do for amusement?"

"We - - - have pets."

"What are PETS?"

"Lower forms of life," Jim explained. "We call them 'dogs' and 'cats' and 'birds'."

"That is our trouble," said the Queen, sadly. "We are a nation of scientists. All of our work is done by electricity. We have plenty of time to play—but nothing to play with. There are no other forms of life on Zoop-I-Ay but us. We were getting horribly bored, when our great men called this conference to find something to amuse us. YOU, Earth-man, amuse us. Will you stay?"

Jim was eager to stay in Zoop-I-Ay, at least until he learned more about this strange civilization, so he agreed readily.

"Woo-Pee-Ay," the Queen addressed one of the Zoopians, "The Soft Ones will stay at your house."

Woo-Pee-Ay bowed and took Jim, Doris and Freddy down to the street again. As they walked along, Jim asked a question that had been troubling him: "Have you no water in Zoop-I-Ay? I don't see a lake or a river anywhere!"

"Oh, NO!" said Woo-Pee-Ay, "Many years ago, we dried up every body of water on this planet — except a few wells, which are kept carefully guarded."

"Why?"

"We are afraid of water. It RUSTS us!" said Woo-Pee-Ay. In fact, that is the Capital Punishment on Zoop-I-Ay - RUSTITATION! When the death-sentence is pronounced upon a criminal, we stand him under a cold shower and he rusts to death!"

THEY FINALLY REACHED Woo-Pee-Ay's house, and his tall orange wife immediately set to work preparing dinner. The meal consisted of a single course—some sort of liquid in a bowl.

"This is delicious," said Doris, choking down the stuff, "what is it?"

"Zoop," answered the female Zoopian. "It is our only food and it contains all the elements of a balanced diet. We women of Zoop-I-Ay don't have to bother with recipes. We have one balanced food and serve it at every meal! Isn't that clever?"

"Very," said Doris. "How do you make it?"

"Oh, we cook it ourselves," tittered the female Zoopian. "The Queen has a central kitchen where a big staff of cooks makes the Zoop for all the land. Then the Zoop is run through a pipe-system. All we do is turn on the faucet and fill our bowls!"

When the meal was over, the Earth-people were in for an even greater surprise - - - for the Zoopians began to eat their plates!

When Mrs. Woo-Pee-Ay saw how astonished her guests were, she explained: "Our plates are made of hardened Zoop. We always eat the dishes after our meals because that saves us the trouble of washing them!"

"Oh, said Doris, weakly.

JIM, DORIS AND FREDDY stayed at the house of Woo-Pee-Ay for three days, and things ran along smoothly. Then one day the Queen held another conference.

"Zoopians," she said, "the problem for which we held the Great Conference has at last been solved! We now have a source of amusement - - - Earth-Men! My plan is to invade the Earth and capture several thousand of these Earthlings for our Zoos. They can sing and dance for us, and we can even let the little Zoopians feed them. What do you think of my plan?"

The air fairly crackled with electric waves . . . the Zoopians were THAT excited!

"I have had their Spaceship seized," Queen Ra went on, "and the Engineers of Zoop-I-Ay are even now devising a way to build ships similar to theirs, with which we can invade the Earth! Until our plan is carried out we will keep the Soft Ones safely in jail. I also note that the male Soft One carries a strange box which he talks to . . . and which answers him. I will have it taken away and placed in our Museum."

So, on their fourth day in Zoop-I-Ay, Jim's radio . . . his only means of communication with the Earth . . . was taken away from him, and together with Doris and Freddy, he was marched off to OOPS, the State Prison.

"Oh, moaned Doris, "what a honeymoon! Why didn't you take me to Bermuda like I asked you?"

"Cheer up, Sis!" said Freddy, "I've got an idea!"

"What?" cried Jim and Doris.

"Well, bullets won't hurt the Zoopians - - - they roll off - - - so YOUR gun isn't any good! But MINE is - - -"

"YOUR gun - - - ?"

"My WATER-GUN! It's filled too - - - I'll rust 'em!"

They had no time to say another word, for the jailer was approaching with their Zoop. But as the jailer turned to go, Freddy whipped out his water-gun and rusted him! Before the three could make their escape, however, a dozen Zoopians came rushing toward them. Jim and Doris were cornered, but not Freddy! He weighed only two pounds on Zesta, so he pulled out the cardboard fans he had kept with him, and flew out of the jail and over the prison wall!

NEXT STEP was to get Jim's radio and broadcast to the earth. It was night, which was a help to Freddy. He overpowered the Museum guard with his water-gun, found the radio and broadcast a message: "Zesta calling Earth! Jim and Doris Brentwood captured by Zoopians, who threaten invasion of the Earth! Send squadron of Spaceships and arm all men with Water-Guns! Also, a Fire Hose and a good supply of WATER - - -!"

It would be two days before the Earth-men could get here, and in the meantime Freddy had to eat. He broke into one of the houses and took a large can of Zoop. Then he flew over the wall of the city and waited for the Spaceships from Earth, nestling close to some tall plants so that a search-party would not find him. Freddy prayed that the Earth-men would get there before the Zoopian Engineers finished work on the Spaceships they were building.

The two days that followed seemed eternities, but at last Freddy saw them - - - twenty-four Spaceships from Earth! One hundred men with water-guns climbed out of the ships and followed Freddy to the jail, where they rusted all the Zoopians who stood in their way, and rescued Jim and Doris. When they had taken care of the Zoopian Engineers, they went back to Jim's Spaceship, SHOOTING COMET, and prepared for the battle with the remaining Metal Men. Turning their Fire Hose on full-blast, the Earth-men rusted hundreds of Zoopians, and then made their way back to the twenty-four Spaceships which the new arrivals had used.

Jim, Doris and Freddy settled wearily in back of one of these new ships, worn out with the adventures of the last few days. "There are still a few hundred Zoopians alive on this planet. Do you suppose they'll try any monkey business?"

"No, they've learned their lesson," the scientist replied, "we have a weapon they don't dare combat - - - WATER!"

AS THE SPACESHIP neared the Earth, Doris whispered something in the pilot's ear and slipped something into his hand, whereupon the ship seemed to veer slightly off its course. When Jim, Doris and Freddy finally set foot on good old terra firma, they were in BERMUDA!

"What th - - -" Jim exclaimed, as the Spaceship quickly roared off again. "He was supposed to leave us off in New York! I have no laboratory here - - - no telescope - - - !"

"That's just lovely," Doris exulted. "I said we'd spend our honeymoon on Bermuda . . . and we will!"

Doris walked nearer the water to inhale the fresh salt air. Thank goodness . . . no more Zoopians! No more strange planetoids . . . no more star-gazing!

At that very moment Freddy was tugging at Jim's elbow, and the cloud which had settled on the scientist's brow suddenly cleared.

"Don't let her see it!" Jim whispered, "Not yet, anyway!"

Freddy grinned, and pushed the shiny telescope back into his pocket!
